

I would just like my voice to be heard. I do not think the Broadcast Ownership Rules should be changed at this time. Allowing one company vast ownership of media resources sounds a lot like controlling a monopoly. How does this create competition? It seems to me that too much control by one company/owner would not allow Americans the freedom to choose what/who they want to read or listen to. The chances of misleading information increases without competition. I would also like to comment that I find it shameful that the FCC has been reluctant about letting the general public know about the decision that is to be made on 2 June. Please take into consideration I am not in favor of the changes purposed.

Thank you, Gina Bonaminio